The Eagle Group Advantage

It begins with people.

At Eagle Group, our consulting, auditing and training team comes from the manufacturing and service environments. Our extensive, "hands-on" implementation & auditing experience with management systems means we have the know-how to apply the most effective path to your successful application of your systems and third party registration/verification. Your project will be assigned a project manager who will ensure consistency and stability throughout your project requirements.

Eagle Group has had our Management System registered since 1997 and we are registered to ISO 9001. We walk the talk!

Our practical experience includes facilitation and instruction in a wide variety of industries.

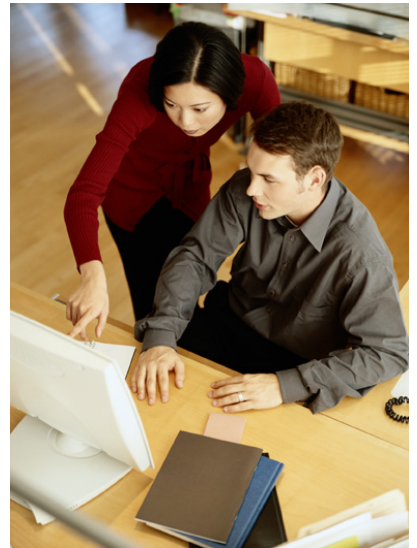

It means utilizing your existing resources to save time and money

The Eagle Group team will use your existing resources to save you both time and money. Our proven, practical approach will ensure a minimum disruption of your business activities.

Training is conducted at your facility or ours. Courses can be tailored to your business requirements. Training courses include exercises actually conducted in the work environment to reinforce the learned material as it relates to your organization. We offer over 40 different training courses and workshops.

In fact, if you're implementing a new ISO based management system, depending upon the status of your current processes and procedures, you could achieve registration in as little as six months. And after Eagle Group has helped you facilitate implementation of your management system, you own it. With our "hands-on" approach, any new procedures, practices, processes that are put in place will integrate with and compliment your existing methods and systems. We will guide your employees on how to implement, manage and maintain the system. And when it's time to select an ISO registrar, we will assist you in that process. In addition, if you need internal auditing support, we offer a full range of on-site auditing services to assist you in maintaining your system.
